Those (Groat!) Statistics
Figures don't lie, perhaps, but sometimes the veracity of statistics can be challenged. And so the Labor Department says from now on it is just going to issue the figures and let who will do the explaining.

It came about recently when the Labor Department issued new unemployment figures. Secretary James D. Hodgson called them "heartening" but a department statistician called them "mixed."

Apparently Mr. Hodgson's gaze was on the jobless rate, which dropped in February from 6 per cent down to 5.8 per cent, while the department analyst was looking more broadly at the board, seeing a drop in the total number of jobs, a shorter than average work week and virtually no rise in workers' earnings.

Sergeant Dies After Heroic Act

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A British sergeant who took the full force of a suitcase bomb aimed at herding a father and two young children to safety died today.

The bomb wounded 27 other persons, demolished a large part of an army-police barracks in Belfast and blew five cars across the street.

One of the cars landed on a baby carriage and seriously injured the child inside.

Police said the suitcase was apparently thrown by a teenager who approached the building with other civilians, then made off in a waiting car.

The sergeant was the eighth British soldier killed in Northern Ireland by terrorists and the second in five days.

Under the pressure of escalating violence in the strife-torn province, Premier Brian Faulkner a few hours earlier announced that the army had been authorized to shoot anyone carrying weapons or acting suspiciously.

Stock Loses Exemptions

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Securities Commissioner William F. Sherman revoked Tuesday the exemption that had been granted on the sale of securities of Make Up, Inc., of Little Rock.

Sherman said the firm had violated the exemption by making a public offer of the stock, rather than restricting the sale to 25 or fewer persons who would purchase with the intent of retaining the stock for investment purposes.

Make Up's president is listed as George W. Blood.

2nd U. of A. Co-Ed Is Stabbed

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — A University of Arkansas coed was stabbed, not seriously, at her apartment early this morning, but police said there was no indication the incident was connected to the fatal stabbing of a university coed in April.

Listed in satisfactory condition at Washington General Hospital this morning is Andrea Jones, 24, of Fort Smith.

Police said Eddie Rush, 21, of Fayetteville, who was not a UA student, was charged with assault with intent to kill in connection with the stabbing.

His arraignment was planned later in the day.

Police said Miss Jones told them she let the man into her apartment to use the telephone and that he attacked her and stabbed her. Police quoted her as saying she ran out of the apartment and down U.S. 71 and managed to stop a truck. The truck driver called police, who said they got the call at 2:32 a.m.

Pauline F. Stormont, 27, a UA student from Ozark, was stabbed the night of April 12 as she was walking from the university to her apartment. Police are still investigating that incident after a charge of first-degree murder was dropped against a 17-year-old Fayetteville youth in connection with Miss Stormont's death.

Police said nothing has come up to connect the two stabbings.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The judge's dismissal of murder-kidnap charges against Black Panthers Bobby G. Seale and Ericka Huggins may not be unprecedented, but it is highly unusual.

At least once in the recent past, a judge has thrown out the case of controversial defendants who had already gone through one trial because he decided jurors unprejudiced by adverse publicity could not be found.

Still, Judge Harold V. Mulvey's action Monday in New Haven was extraordinary. The usual course would have been for him to provide for a cooling-off period and then a new trial of Seale and Mrs. Huggins

Mortgage Rate Rise Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mortgage interest rates have bottomed out and are expected to rise soon, perhaps by as much as half a percentage point, "for no reason that we can clearly understand," reports a leader in the homebuilding industry.

"The traditional demand-supply relationship is being virtually ignored in the mortgage market where there is a surplus of loanable funds," John A. Stastny, president of the National Association of Homebuilders, said Tuesday.

"There is no justification in the money markets to warrant any rate increases," he added.

But, he said, the associations' economist and staff members of the Council of Economic Advisors have indicated to him they expect an increase this year.

The ceiling on Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration loans is now 7 per cent, a sharp decline from the 8.5 per cent peak in 1970. Stastny said interest rates would not drop lower "because of the expectation that inflation is not under control."

The strong flow of money into the mortgage market was underscored by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board's report Tuesday that net savings flowing into federal savings and loan associations reached $2.1 billion in April, the largest amount on record for the month. The total marked a decline from $2.6 billion net savings flow recorded in March.

Residency Required for Welfare

By WALTER STOVALL
Associated Press Writer

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state Senate has approved a controversial proposal requiring one-year residency for welfare payments after a bitter floor argument in which one senator challenged another to a duel.

The Republican-backed measure, approved 32 to 21 Tuesday night, was attacked as racist-oriented by black legislators and Democrats. It was passed by the Assembly on Saturday. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller proposed the measure and is sure to sign it.

Under terms of the bill, newcomers to the state could be denied welfare benefits and allowed only token aid—lunch, for example, and transportation home. The residency requirement would continue during a five-year "emergency period."

Officials of the state Social Services Department said if the policy had been in effect in the past five years an average of 12,000 persons would have been affected each year. They predicted a yearly savings of $4 million to the state.

Court challenges were promised by black and Puerto Rican lawmakers and other groups within minutes after the measure cleared the Senate. A spokesman for the New York Civil Liberties Union said a court suit already was being prepared.

Charges were hurled back and forth across the floor during debate and Sen. Martin Knorr, a Queens Republican, took offense at being labeled a racist. He was promptly challenged to a duel by Sen. Sidney von Luther, a black Democrat from Manhattan.

"You just name the time and place in a country where it's legal," von Luther said.

The debate lasted almost four hours.

"I spent the first 13 years of my life in Nazi Germany where signs were posted saying 'Juden Verboten,'" said Sen. Manfred Ohrenstein, another Manhattan Democrat.

"With this bill we are hanging up signs in airports, bus stations and highways saying: 'Black and Puerto Rican men and women verboten.'"

9 Transient Fruit Pickers Found Slain

PETE WEISSER

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — The bodies of nine transient fruit workers, hacked with a machete or some kind of heavy knife, have been unearthed from the peach and plum orchards of this farming community, the county sheriff announced today.

Sheriff Roy Whiteacre said Juan V. Corona, 37, a farm labor contractor, was arrested shortly before dawn without resistance at a Richland Road home.

"He will be booked for nine counts of murder," the sheriff said of Corona. Whiteacre did not announce an alleged motive for the slayings.

Undersheriff Frank Cartoscelli said all the victims were transient fruit workers, ranging in age from 40 to 60 and that the times of the killings ranged from five or six weeks ago to sometime this week.

Corona was led into the county jail with his head covered by a sweater and coat, his hands manacled behind his back. He was under heavy guard, after his arrest in south Yuba City.

Two dozen deputies had raided the same house earlier only to find it unoccupied.

The bodies were found—eight Tuesday and one last Friday—in two local fruit orchards.

All were in shallow graves. Cartoscelli said the weapon was a machete or a heavy knife.

"Most of the back of their heads were hacked up, and all were stabbed in the chest area. All were buried the same way," he said.

The first of the discoveries was made last Friday on the farm of Goro Kagehiro, who said he had noticed a hole about two-feet-deep and six-feet-long but thought nothing of it. Then he returned to find the hole filled up and thought someone had buried stolen property.

He called the sheriff's office. In subsequent digging they "uncovered a toe."

The body was identified as that of Kenneth Whitacre, 40, last address Alameda, Calif.,

Republican Wins in Maryland

By TOM STUCKEY

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Republican William O. Mills, a onetime Democrat and staunch backer of President Nixon's domestic and foreign policies, has won the congressional seat in Maryland's largely rural 1st District.

Complete but unofficial returns from the 12-county district Tuesday showed Mills with 31,165 votes to 27,234 for Democratic State Sen. Elroy G. Boyer.

Mills, 46, top aide to former Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton for more than eight years, will assume the seat left vacant when Morton became Secretary of the Interior.

Although Boyer, 51, tried to rally Democratic support by picturing the election as a referendum on Nixon administration policies, there was little difference in the positions taken by the two men on major issues.

Each ran as a moderate conservative in a district which is traditionally the most conservative in Maryland.

Both pledged complete support of Nixon's policies for Southeast Asia, and both called for tighter controls on federal spending, especially for welfare.

The total turnout of 58,399 was considerably higher than expected and almost double the 30,882 votes cast in the primary April 25.

The GOP victor had considerable help from national Republicans, with both Morton and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew making campaign appearances for him.

The election was Mills first try for public office, but the job he will take on will be a familiar one.

He was Morton's administrative aide the entire time the new interior secretary represented the 1st District, which borders Chesapeake Bay. Mills was a life-long Democrat until he changed his registration shortly before Morton resigned to accept the cabinet post.

5-Billion Military Pay Hike Is Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has told the Senate a $5-billion military pay raise over one year could have "an extremely serious impact upon our national security."

Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard made the attack Tuesday in a letter to Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., concerning an amendment to the draft extension bill offered by Sens. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, and Richard S. Schweiker R-Pa.

Packard said the amendment, up for a vote today after action was completed on a move to extend Selective Service by 18 months, could lead to major base closings and serious economic problems.

The 18-month extension proposal by Colorado Republican Peter Dominick was opposed by both those seeking a two-year addition as approved by the House and those who want it limited to 12 months. The current draft law expires June 30.

The Hughes-Schweiker amendment would boost the $1-billion military pay raise sought by the Nixon administration to the $2.7 billion approved earlier by the House.

Stennis, floor manager of the bill, said already-planned pay raises of $1.2 billion each in January 1971 and January 1972, plus the $1 billion proposed by the President, would provide $3.4 billion in military pay boosts in one year. He said the Hughes-Schweiker amendment would raise that to more than $5 billion.

Packard said such a boost would necessitate a 250,000-man military personnel cutback and a 6-per-cent reduction in defense contracts totaling $2 billion.

200 Aboard Australian Qantas Saved

By IAN McCausland
Associated Press Writer

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — An Australian airline paid a ransom of $500,000 today to a gang that claimed to have put a barometric bomb on a Boeing 707 jetliner with more than 200 persons aboard.

Qantas, Australia's international airline, made the payoff in the center of the city just as the plane landed safely at Sydney's international airport. It had circled for six and a half hours while all defense forces and police personnel went on a red alert to deal with the emergency.

Eight ships of the Royal Australian Navy, including two submarines and three destroyers, were rushed to the Botany Bay area on the edge of the airport.

An anonymous caller had telephoned the airport and said a bomb had been put in an airport locker. Police raced to the locker area and found the bomb.

With it were three notes. One said a similar bomb had been put aboard Qantas flight 755, which had left two and a half hours earlier for Hong Kong. Examination of the bomb showed it was fitted with an unconnected barometric device. If connected, it would explode below 20,000 feet.

Also in the locker was a demand for $500,000 ransom, or $500,000 U.S.

The notes said the location of the bomb on the plane and instructions how to defuse it would be given when the ransom was paid.

The aircraft, then en route to a stop at Darwin, on the north coast, was ordered to return to Sydney immediately. The passengers were not told of the bomb threat, and the crew searched the plane but found nothing suspicious.

While a blackout was put on news of the threat, Qantas officials conferred feverishly with military and police authorities. They decided that the money must be paid.

Instructions for the payoff came in a telephone call to Qantas from a "Mr. Brown." He said Capt. Robert J. Ritchie, general manager of Qantas, should hand over the money in front of the airline's office in the center of the city.

Qantas officials raced around the banks, collecting the money.

At 5:45 p.m. Ritchie walked into the street.

A yellow hire van drew up beside him and a man identified himself as "Mr. Brown." Ritchie handed over the suitcases of money, and the van sped away into the rush-hour traffic.

"Brown" was believed to have worn a false beard.

Consolidation Weather Victory Tops for Nixon

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — It cost money in the bargaining, but the Nixon administration has won a decisive congressional victory for consolidating federal volunteer programs.

After the three hour debate over Nixon's proposal to merge the Peace Corps, VISTA and several other volunteer agencies into a new Action Corps, the House Tuesday voted 224-131 in favor of the administration plan.

Before the House vote, the administration gave assurances more money would be spent and changes made in the administration of the Action Corps and that the congressional committees now with jurisdiction over volunteer agencies would retain that control.

Liberal House members, led by Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., expressed concern during debate that the Nixon plan would "diminish, if not completely eliminate, the effectiveness of the constituent programs."

"Thrown together like so many apples and oranges into one basket, these programs would soon lose their identity and their force," said Thompson.

The primary cause of concern was that the administration was using the merger as a means to eliminate Volunteers in Action to America, the domestic antipoverty volunteer arm of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Rep. Chet Holifield, chairman of the Government Operations Committee, said the administration, to the contrary, planned to strengthen VISTA by seeking an increase of $12 million in its budget for 1972 to give it $45 million. He said another $8 million would be sought for other domestic VISTA-like programs.

When Nixon sent his proposal to Congress on March 24, he said he would combine all the current budgets of the programs involved in the merger and add $20 million to be "directed primarily to finding new ways to use volunteer services."

Critics charged the total budget request for the programs next year came to $120.9 million, some $16 million less than was spent on the programs this year. The additional $20 million, they said, would bring up the total only $4 million.

Rep. Ogden Reid, R-N.Y., said he had been authorized to say the White House will move this weekend to boost the budget request for Peace Corps from its current $72 million to $82 million or $89 million.

Freeze on Ark. Spending Has Ended

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Tuesday that he had modified a freeze on hiring and spending by state agencies to allow state-supported colleges and universities to make purchasing decisions.

Bumpers also said that he probably would grant to the heads of the 13 "super departments" authority to make decisions on hiring.

The super departments, like other state agencies, will, however, remain under the freeze on spending, the governor said.

The freeze was imposed March 1 by executive order by Bumpers, who gave the state Administration Department authority to approve or reject agency plans to hire personnel or purchase goods.

Dr. Max Milam, director of the department, said the move had succeeded in producing economy in government, but he said he could not estimate what amount of savings had resulted.

Colleges and universities never were under a freeze on hiring.

In a letter to presidents of higher education institutions, Bumpers said this week that he was relieving the Administration Department Purchasing Division of the policing responsibility.

"I am, however, requiring each institution to continue to comply with the spirit of the order and effect all possible economies in its operation," the letter said.

The governor said Tuesday that the department had become "bogged down" with the work involved in policing the order. He said also that he believed he had made his point in calling for retrenchment of spending.

Milam said the department had encountered difficulty in properly assessing the needs of colleges and universities outside of the Little Rock area.

The modification of the freeze on state-agency hiring would give departments flexibility in hiring students for summer jobs, Milam said. Bumpers said Friday night, also, that there was a critical job situation in some agencies and Milam said that because vacancies had not been filled some departments were having trouble operating the way the department heads would like.

Crackdown on Racial Brawling

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The senior officer at this major Vietnam embarkation point vowed Tuesday not to tolerate further racial brawling which led to the arrest of 135 airmen.

"Whatever action is necessary will be taken to insure it doesn't happen again," Maj. Gen. William G. Moore, senior officer at this 10,000 man base, said at a news conference.

He added that Monday night's brawl in which 600 men fought with fists and clubs "is related to the over-all U.S. racial dilemma."

A Travis spokesman reported Tuesday night: "Everything is normal. There have been no new incidents."

More than 200 military policemen were on duty at the base, which is home for the 22nd Air Force.

Air police aided by 78 civilian law enforcement officers quelled the disturbance Monday night when the worst of the trouble erupted. There also was brawling Saturday night and Sunday.

A fire in the bachelor officers' quarters Monday caused an estimated $5,000 damage and a civilian fireman died of a heart attack while fighting the flames.

All but 89 of those arrested were freed Tuesday. A base spokesman said 25 in custody were white, the others black. A spokesman said all were assigned to the base, not transients.

$750,000 Error in Oil Tax

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Blaming a clerical error, a state Revenue Department official said Tuesday that during the last 17 months the department had overcharged Mobil Oil Corp. $750,000 in motor fuel taxes.

W. E. Stevenson, director of the Motor Fuel Tax Division of the department, said the overcharge will be credited against Mobil's tax bill during the next 12 months.

The error resulted in the largest overcharge in his 17 years with the department, Stevenson said.

When Mobil switched from a manual to a mechanical auditing system, a Mobile employee, new to processing the reports, included elements that called for a larger payment than actually was due from Mobil, Stevenson said.

He said the department caught the error when its auditors were unable to reconcile Mobil's reports. The firm's monthly payments usually range from $250,000 to $400,000, Stevenson said.

The error doesn't affect state revenues "to any perceptible degree," he added, explaining: "There's no interest involved. We've just had the use of their money all this time."

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dividends on preferred and common stocks, payable June 30 to holders of record June 15, were declared Tuesday by the Allied Telephone Co. Board of Directors.

The dividends included 68.75 cents per share of 5 1/2 per cent preferred, 72 cents per share of convertible preferred, 6 cents per share of common and 6 of a cent per share of Class A.

McIntosh said five per cent of the requested increase was not justified.

The office had presented evidence on losses in the homeowners insurance field, but McIntosh said the loss trend in Arkansas was not as high as ISO's figures indicated.

The ISO represents about 75 per cent of the insurance companies in Arkansas.

College Aid Plan Is Dismissed

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Nixon administration plan to aid the nation's colleges has been dismissed by key House sponsors of education legislation who prefer programs of their own.

The administration proposal, the product of long internal debate, would provide grants to colleges based on the amount of federal aid their students are receiving.

"It's a ridiculous approach," Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., ranking Republican on the House Education and Labor Committee said Tuesday. Rep. Edith Green, R-Ore., chairman of the House education subcommittee agreed.

Mrs. Green and Quie are pushing rival plans for channeling federal funds directly to the colleges, an approach firmly opposed by the administration until now.

Just last month James B. Cardwell, assistant and comptroller of HEW, said direct federal subsidies for colleges could perpetuate bad management, delay needed educational reforms, dry up other sources of aid and result in colleges getting used to living beyond their means.

"I believe we need to think more and perhaps even worry more about the possible consequences of such a policy," Cardwell said in his April 26 speech.

However, the near certainty that Congress will pass some form of institutional grant program led the administration to draw up one of its own.

Both Quie and Mrs. Green said the Nixon approach were no relation to the financial needs of an institution. And since 80 per cent of the needy students receiving federal aid are in colleges and universities, said Quie, it would give little assistance to the private colleges where the need for financial aid is greatest.

Nixon Calls North 'Hypocritical' in Its Integration Stand

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, making his first campaign-style trip of the year into the Deep South, has castigated some Northerners for a "double hypocritical standard" on race relations.

Appearing Tuesday in Birmingham and Mobile, Ala., the state that calls itself the "Heart of Dixie," Nixon pictured himself as sympathetic toward the South while having "utter contempt" for racial attitudes of some in the North.

Police estimated at least 160,000 persons turned out to greet Nixon in Alabama's two largest cities. The welcome was as warm as the weather. Hostile chants were insignificantly few. Antiwar placards were far outnumbered by printed ones reading "Win in Vietnam."

Clearly, Nixon and his aides savored what they regarded as a political triumph on the home turf of Gov. George C. Wallace, the President's third-party opponent in 1968 and a potential 1972 foe.

Wallace was on hand in both cities with Nixon—terming the chief executive's presence "a signal honor"—but did not ride with the President in any of the day's motorcades. The White House apparently wanted it that way.

Nixon counted heavily on Southern support in 1968 and presumably will do so next year, although he has denied pursuing a "Southern strategy."

Alabama, which sees presidents only infrequently—58 years ago in the case of Mobile and 50 years ago in Birmingham—turned out impressively biracial crowds. Blacks seemed as enthusiastic as whites in their response.

Nixon's most pointed language came at a private briefing session in Birmingham for publishers, editors and broadcasters from the 12 states of the Old Confederacy. He said: "I know the difficult problems most of you in the Southern states have had on the school desegregation problem. I went to school in the South and so therefore I am more familiar with how Southerners feel about that problem than others

"I have nothing but utter contempt for the double hypocritical standards of Northerners who look at the South and point the finger and say, 'Why don't those Southerners do something about their race problem.'"

Nixon said the South in two years has undergone "a peaceful, relatively quiet, very significant revolution" in its schools. He went on:

"Today 38 per cent of all black children in the South go to majority white schools. Today only 28 per cent of all black children in the North go to majority white schools. There has been no progress in the North in the past three years. There has been significant progress in the South."

Royall, Ex Army Secy., Dies at 76

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Kenneth C. Royall, 76, secretary of the Army under President Harry S. Truman, died early today at Watts Hospital in Durham. He had been at the hospital for several weeks.

Royall, a native of Goldsboro, N.C., served overseas in World Wars I and II.

In the spring of 1945 he became special assistant to the secretary of war and later that year he was named undersecretary of war.

Truman appointed him secretary of war in July, 1947. Under the armed forces unification program, Royall was named secretary of the Army in September of that year.

In April 1949, he resigned after several requests that he be allowed to return to private life. He then joined a New York law firm.

Royall was a 1914 graduate of the University of North Carolina and three years later graduated from Harvard Law School.

Alertness Vital in War Windup

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said today a "herculean effort" is needed to keep U.S. troops as alert as they need to be during the American disengagement from the Vietnam war.

"An atmosphere and climate begin to prevail and with it comes a certain amount of laxity," the commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam told newsmen. "It just requires a lot of attention, a herculean effort to keep alertness up."

Abrams said the same situation prevailed near the end of World War II and the Korean war.

He declined to discuss the rocket attack last Friday that killed or wounded about 60 American troops crowded into one bunker at Firebase Charlie 2 below the demilitarized zone.

"I wasn't there," said the general. "I shouldn't try to kibitz what went on."

He also refused to confirm or deny reports that he reacted with great anger at a staff meeting last Saturday because so many men had taken refuge in one bunker. One officer who attended the meeting said Abrams "hit them with all eight stars," a reference to his four-star rank, four stars on each side of his collar.

"That's speculative," the general said today.

Abrams was interviewed after a ceremony at nearby Long Binh at which Maj. Gen. Jack J. Wagstaff took over the 3rd Regional Assistance Command from Lt. Gen. Michael S. Davison. The latter is taking command of U.S. forces in Europe.

On the battlefield, South Vietnamese forces claimed 48 North Vietnamese killed in a clash seven miles southwest of Charlie 2 and said they also captured 98 122mm rockets, with which the enemy pounded bases along the DMZ last week. Seven South Vietnamese were reported wounded.

Insurance Hike Is Opposed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Kenneth McIntosh, actuary for the state Insurance Department, challenged Tuesday evidence presented by the Insurance Services Office of New York in behalf of a requested 17 per cent increase in homeowners insurance rates.

McIntosh testified that the increase sought by ISO was not supported by statistics.

The ISO requested an increase that would be, in effect, a 17 per cent jump from present

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — CBS's "60 Minutes" usually manages to have an off-beat picture story in its biweekly program. Tuesday night it was a report on the little understood tanker business and the owners who, if calculated risks work out, make huge profits hauling oil around the world.

The pictures of the mammoth tankers were impressive, and Mike Wallace's commentary on the business intriguing.

There was also an impressive introduction of a new face on the antiwar scene, former Navy Lt. John Kerry. He is the 27-year-old Yale man who recently made a big impression on Washington with his impassioned testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and as organizer of a demonstration in which disabled veterans of Vietnam threw away their medals in protest against the continuation of the war. Kerry, who hinted at political ambitions, said frankly the medal-throwing was a device to attract coverage by the electronic media.

The program wound up with an interview with former presidential candidate Eugene McCarthy. He spoke of his interest in a third political party, but maintained firmly that he has not decided whether to try for the presidency again in 1972.

The program may get a little out of balance with its interest in national politics and war, but it is still a very bright spot in the schedule.

Public broadcasting stations which seem to be just as interested in pumping out fresh programs in warm weather as in cold, are a particular boon to the bored viewer these nights.

There are a number of programs, not always carried as network broadcasts, that circulate among the educational stations and deserve more attention than they get. One, in particular, is Robert Cromie's "Book Beat."

Cromie, book critic for a Chicago and a Washington newspaper, is one television interviewer who really reads his guests' books. His style is easy, literate and brings out the best even in nervous authors.

On a recent program, Cromie was discussing "Defending the Environment" with its author, Prof. Joseph N. Sax of the University of Michigan law school. The book was a report on legal action by citizens groups and others in efforts to protect and preserve areas of land, sea-shore and water as part of the public trust. A dull subject? Not at all under the gentle prodding from Cromie. Sax told details of one fascinating case after another.

It was a solid half hour of good talk and altogether refreshing.

Airport Standards on Safety Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time in its 39-year history the Federal Aviation Administration is setting minimum standards for airport safety.

Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe today announced proposed regulations to set the safety standards in line with legislation signed over a year ago by President Nixon.

Basic physical safety needs must be met under the proposals, though the provisions to not extend to such areas as navigational aids and air traffic loads—among the main hazards to aviation.

The only portion of the rules proposed today that deals with overcrowding, or heavy air traffic, is a section which says airports must establish "appropriate procedures ... informing air carrier users of conditions that may or will affect operational safety at airport."

Other requirements are for:

—Runway pavement roughness of not more than an inch over a specific distance.

—Safety areas abutting runways and taxiways free of unnecessary objects, and must be graded so no ponds would collect during rain storms.

—Adequate, operable runway, taxiway and obstruction lighting.

—Appropriate fire fighting.

Dodgers Lose to Juan Marichal

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers helped Willie Mays celebrate his 20 years in the big leagues with a barrage of birthday cakes ... but couldn't cut it against Juan Marichal as usual.

Mays was rewarded with 20 cakes prior to the San Francisco-Los Angeles contest Tuesday night at Dodger Stadium, then Marichal went out and starved the Dodgers on seven hits in a 9-1 Giants romp.

The triumph continued Marichal's spellbinding successes against his Los Angeles cousins. The Dodger-killing dandy has now mastered them 36 times in 49 career decisions.

His mastery is so complete, in fact, that he must endure the scorn of the usually-placid Dodger audience.

Marichal, who pitched a 1-0 beauty against Los Angeles at Candlestick Park on May 15, said he received letters from Dodger fans saying the wind was the only reason he won there.

Elsewhere in the National League, the New York Mets trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4 in 12 innings; the Houston Astros stopped the San Diego Padres 3-2; the Montreal Expos edged the Atlanta Braves 3-2; the St. Louis Cardinals bounced the Chicago Cubs 4-2 and the Cincinnati Reds turned back the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-4.

In the American League, it was Washington 6, Boston 5 in 11 innings; Minnesota 8, Milwaukee 5; Detroit 7, New York 4; Kansas City 8, Chicago 3 and Oakland 7, California 5 in 13 innings. Rain washed out Cleveland at Baltimore.

Marichal, who has a history of pitching his best against the Dodger aces, beat Bill Singer for the second time in two weeks.

Bullet Bill, blasted out by a six-run sixth inning that included a three-run homer by Marichal, is off to the worst start of his career with a 2-9 record.

Los Angeles Manager Walt Alton said he still has no intention of taking him out of the starting rotation despite the statistics.

Bob Aspromonte drilled a Jim Bunning offering into the right field corner to score the winning run for New York in the bottom of the 12th. Donn Clendenon roared home from second base on the two-out single.

Tin Foli reached first on an infield error to open the inning. Tommie Agee walked and was forced at second by Clendenon, as Foli took third. Foli was caught at home on Cleon Jones' grounder to shortstop Larry Bowa, but then Aspromonte delivered the game-winner.

Johnny Edwards brought Houston from behind with a three-run homer in the seventh inning. Clay Kirby had a 2-0 cushion and was working on a one-hitter when John Mayberry singled and rode to third on Norm Miller's double. Edwards then ripped a two-out homer, his first of the year.

Fred Gladding pitched a scoreless ninth inning for Houston, although rapped for a double and infield single, to preserve starter Jack Billingham's first victory since April 18.

Ron Swoboda's bases-loaded walk in the seventh inning scored the winning run for Montreal. Swoboda's walk off Phil Niekro followed passes to Rusty Staub and Bob Bailey and an error by second baseman Felix Millan on Ron Fairly's sharp grounder.

The Expos had tied the game 2-2 on Fairly's run-scoring single in the fifth.

Led Simmons' run-scoring single in the third inning broke a 2-2 tie and St. Louis iced the victory over Chicago with a run in the fourth on a single by Joe Judge, walk to Julian Javier and single by Ted Sizemore.

St. Louis southpaw Steve Carlton survived Chicago's two-run lead Jim Hickman singled for the second run of the

Foy, Williams Roles Are Reversed

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Joe Foy used to have his problems with a manager named Williams in Boston. Now it's the Red Sox who are having trouble in Boston with Foy and a manager named Williams.

Foy lashed out four hits Tuesday night and singled home the winning run in the 11th inning to give the Washington Senators a 6-5 triumph over his former team. His error in the eighth had set up Boston's tying run.

It was Washington's second victory in a row over the Red Sox, with Foy collecting seven hits in nine at-bats and raising his average from .204 to .246. He's batting .571 against the Red Sox this season.

In other American League action, Oakland beat California 7-5 in 13 innings, Detroit whipped the New York Yankees 7-4, Minnesota downed Milwaukee 8-5 and Kansas City trounced the Chicago White Sox 8-3. Cleveland was rained out, Baltimore with the Orioles leading 2-1 in the second inning.

National League scores: New York Mets 5, Philadelphia 4 in 12 innings; St. Louis 4, Chicago Cubs 2; Cincinnati 7, Pittsburgh 4; Montreal 3, Atlanta 2; San Francisco 9, Los Angeles 1 and Houston 3, San Diego 2.

Three years ago, after a series of run-ins with manager Dick Williams of the Red Sox, Foy was dealt off to Kansas City. He subsequently wound up with the New York Mets and Washington drafted him off the Mets' minor league roster last winter.

Now Foy can't say enough about his current manager, former Boston great Ted Williams.

Foy's game-winning hit followed walks to Toby Harrah, Tim Cullen and Del Unser. Earlier, the Senators took a 3-0 lead in the first inning, with Frank Howard drilling a bases-loaded single. Reggie Smith hit a solo homer for Boston in the third as the Red Sox battled back.

Foy's old boss, Dick Williams, also had a happy evening. Dave Duncan's second home run of the game tied the score with two out in the ninth inning and Williams' Oakland A's went on to beat the Angels on Reggie Jackson's two-run blast in the 13th.

Dick Green hit a three-run homer for the A's while Ken McMullen and Roger Repoz connected for the Angels.

The red-hot Tigers blew a 3-0 lead but ripped into relievers Lindy McDaniel and Jack Aker for four runs in the seventh and whipped the stumbling Yankees, who have dropped nine of their last 11 games. The Tigers have won seven straight.

Singles by Al Kaline, Jim Northrup and Norm Cash tied the score, the go-ahead run scored on a fielder's choice and Aurelio Rodriguez and Ed Brinkman added run-scoring singles.

Harmon Killebrew drove in four runs with a homer and double to pace the Twins over the Brewers. Killebrew's two-run double and a three-run homer by George Mitterwald accounted for five runs in the sixth inning as the Twins snapped a 3-all tie.

Mike Hegan, Johnny Briggs and Tommy Harper homered for Milwaukee.

Home runs by Gail Hopkins and Paul Schaaf helped the Royals trim the White Sox. Schaaf also drove in a run with a double, Ed Kirkpatrick had two run-scoring singles and Cookie Rojas cracked a two-run double. Jay Johnstone walloped a pinch homer for the Sox.

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians have placed infielder-outfielder John Lowenstein on the disabled list.

Lowenstein was readmitted to the Lutheran Medical Center Tuesday after his injured right lower leg and left ankle began to bother him after some light workouts.

Lowenstein was injured May 17 in a three-player collision while chasing a pop fly.

Phil Rogers Low Qualifier for Open

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Phil Rogers of La Jolla, Calif., put together a 69 and a blistering 63 for a 36-hole total of 132 for the lowest score Tuesday in the windup of local qualifying competition for the U.S. Open Golf Championship next month.

Rogers, playing in Memphis, Tenn., got his two-under-par 69 over the par 71 Galloway Park course of 5,962 yards. His seven-under-par 63 came over the 6,315-yard layout of the Audubon Park Course.

Dick Carmody of Long Beach, Calif., was runnerup to Rogers with a 68-66-134.

Johnny Mahaffey, former U. of Houston golfer who recently turned pro, shot rounds of 68-68 for a six-under-par 136 to lead the qualifiers in Houston. Bruce Lietzke, a Houston sophomore from Beaumont, was second at 138.

The play of Rogers and Carmody overshadowed the 67-70-137 turned in by Bill Lytle of San Jose, Calif., to lead the qualifiers at the Silverado Country Club in San Francisco.

Jay Conner, a 14-year-old student at Shasta High School in Redding, Calif., shot a 73-75-148 and was among the qualifiers at San Francisco.

Rick Spears, an amateur from Port Jarvis, N.Y., and Rex Baxter, a Cleveland pro, each posted a 142 to lead the competition at Eastchester, N.Y., and Cleveland, respectively.

John Kennedy of Edgemont, Pa., led the qualifiers from the greater Philadelphia area with a 141.

Veteran pro, E. J. "Dutch" Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., led 23 qualifiers in St. Louis with a three-over-par 145 at the Glen Echo Country Club.

Otto Greiner of Tenafly, N.J. and Jay Morelli of Belle Meade, N.J., tied at 146 to lead the qualifiers at Haworth, N.J. Spears, a 24-year-old former star at the University of Florida, posted rounds of 71-71 for his one-over-par 142 at Eastchester. Baxter's 71-71-142 was two-under-par at the Acacia Country Club in Cleveland.

Spears led 15 qualifiers from a field of 83 at Leewood Golf Club and Lake Isle Country Club in Eastchester. He scored by one stroke over Bill Collins, Purchase, N.Y., who had a 71-71-143.

Jim Keim, an amateur from Erie, Pa., was runnerup to Baxter at Cleveland with a 73-73-146. The play at the Beechmont Country Club was interrupted by thunderstorms Monday and completed Tuesday.

Tuesday's qualifiers now will compete with Monday's qualifiers in the sectional qualifying at 13 locations Monday and Tuesday, June 7-8.

Mahler Arrives for '500' Minus Car, and Still Hasn't One

By BLOYS BRITT

AP Auto Racing Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) —

John Mahler, the most publicized rookie driver in Indianapolis, wants it known that he isn't mad at the man who took him out of Saturday's $1 million auto race.

"I didn't have a ride when I came up here and I don't have one now," said the 36-year-old Mahler, of Bettendorf, Iowa. "Yet, it has been the best thing that has happened to me."

Mahler qualified a car owned by Salt Lake City businessman-driver Dick Simon at 170.164 m.p.h. — the fastest four-lap speed ever turned by a first year man at Indianapolis Motor Speedway. He would have started 27th in the field.

But Simon, who had been bumped from the field in his own car, announced Monday that he was taking over Mahler's car for the race and, under the rules, would start it in

Elvin Hayes Heads for Astrodome

HOUSTON (AP) — The Big E, Elvin Hayes, who helped set an Astrodome basketball record, arrived Tuesday to start preparations for another.

It was Hayes, then playing for the University of Houston, who helped draw a record crowd of 52,693 fans to the Astrodome in 1968 when the Cougars took on the undefeated UCLA team led by Lew Alcindor.

Hayes, now with the San Diego Rockets of the National Basketball Association, and Alcindor, with the Milwaukee Bucks, will be on the same side here Friday night when the NBA All-Stars take on the top players from the American Basketball Association in the first meeting between the two leagues.

Hayes came in early in an attempt to help boost the slow-selling tickets. So far, Astrodome officials say, only about 8,000 have been bought.

The players of the two leagues are playing the game in defiance of the club owners to show that a merger of the two leagues, now being sought, is not necessary for the leagues to compete.

The players do not want to see an end to the bidding war for player talent, which would occur with a merger. If the leagues merge, since the players have started the all-star game, they might have a strong say in controlling it thereafter.

Tuesday's qualifiers now will compete with Monday's qualifiers in the sectional qualifying at 13 locations Monday and Tuesday, June 7-8.

33rd, or last position.

Simon, who finished 14th last year in his only Indianapolis 500 start, said contractual obligations with his sponsor, the Travelodge chain of motels, forced him to remove Mahler.

The episode quickly made Simon the villain and Mahler the hero in a swirling controversy among racing personnel and fans alike. Mahler admitted Tuesday "it made me a somebody after coming here as a nobody."

Simon, an insurance executive in private life, said the Travelodge people provided him with a backup car—the one Mahler qualified — and that terms of his contract called for him to drive the car if it raced.

"Dick can only be looked on in the role of villain if the people see me as the persecuted," Mahler said.

"I don't want it that way. Actually, I'm indebted to Dick. He gave me a chance to pass my rookie test in the car, and it was only after he qualified his own car that I got the chance to qualify the second car. It is unfortunate that he was bumped from the lineup by a faster car."

A sports car driver since 1959, Mahler said the attention he had gained by being ousted from the world's richest race had opened up the future for him.

Simon and the 33 other drivers who will start the race at 11 a.m. Saturday got their last chance to tour the speedway today when they participated in carburation runs. The tests, to check fuel consumption and tire wear, were to begin at 11 a.m. and last for three hours.

The speedway was to be opened to spectators for the tests—for the first time ever.

3 SW Teams Invited to Golf Tourney

HOUSTON (AP)—Texas, University of Houston, Texas Tech and Arkansas won invitations Tuesday to the NCAA Golf Championships June 21-26 in Tucson, Ariz.

The four teams will represent Dist. 6 in the tournament.

Houston is the defending NCAA champion and Texas finished in a tie for sixth place last year.

Texas and Houston were picked as independents, Texas Tech is the SWC champion and Arkansas was runnerup. Although Texas is a member of the Southwest Conference, the school did not compete for the championship this year.

Yost, 44, coaches third base for the New York Mets and Ken, 39, manages the Wichita Aeros in the American Association for the Cleveland Indians.

Bob Aspromonte, Ken's brother, is 32 and plays third base for the Mets. Bob has been a National Leaguer since he broke in with Brooklyn in 1956. Ken began with Boston at 25 in 1957.

Yost and the Aspros, both infielders, were born in Brooklyn.

Rozelle Fights Bets on Football

By MIKE RATHER

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League has his guard up against any attempt to legalize betting on pro football—a decisive stance he first took when a teen-aged gambler belted him in the chops.

Provoked by the possibility of an extension of New York's Off-Track Betting venture to include professional team sports, Rozelle said Tuesday that such attempts would create a "chaotic situation" by undermining "the sport's backbone—integrity."

And he used the belt in the chops to illustrate the danger in the situation.

Recalling a game early in his commissionership that he attended at New York's Yankee Stadium, Rozelle remembers two teen-agers slipping in behind him in the two empty seats in his box during the first quarter of a Giants' game.

"Since the two seats weren't being used I let the kids sit there," Rozelle explained. "It was obvious they had $5 bets on the game because by the second quarter I kept hearing things like 'the game's a fix' and 'Little's going in the tank.'"

"So I turned around and told them I didn't care for them sitting in the seats, but to knock it off. And they kept quiet during the third and fourth quarters. But as soon as the gun sounded ending the game, I felt a tap on my shoulder."

"I turned around—and that's when I got a belt in the chops," Rozelle used that story to emphasize that permitting bets on games "changes the character of the fan—rather than an interest in how his team does he now has a financial interest in the outcome. We could be badly hurt. And so we're deeply concerned."

The subject became a concern for Rozelle when Howard Samuels, who runs New York's OTB operation—which permits legalized betting on horse racing at betting parlors away from the track

Dave Hill Pays Another Tourney Fine

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Dave Hill, the sometimes bad boy of the pro golf tour, faced a $500 fine today on the eve of his defense of the title in the $175,000 Danny Thomas Memphis Golf Classic.

The oft-fined Hill, center of a number of controversies in recent years, had to pay the fine before he was eligible to play in this tournament that he has won three of the last four years.

"If I didn't do something like that once in a while, I'd go right up the side of the wall," Hill said of his action in the second round of last week's Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament.

It was those actions—he threw a ball out of a trap and purposely signed an incorrect scorecard—that prompted the disciplinary move by the Tournament Players Division of the PGA.

The action was not announced publicly, but levy of the fine was learned by The Associated Press. Under TPD rules it is classified as a major fine—Hill was assessed only $150 for his much-publicized criticism of the United States Open course a year ago—and often brings other disciplinary action.

The 34-year-old Hill, winner of eight tour titles, remained a strong favorite for the $35,000 first prize in the 72 hole test that begins Thursday on the short little Colonial Country Club course, a 6,466 yard, par 70 layout he has dominated in recent years.

Hill, however, wasn't so certain.

"I'm driving good, but I'm hitting my irons just awful," the slim, intense guy who purposely disqualified himself from last week's event.

Gene Littler, last week's winner and a two-time champ this season, is another major contender in the 150 man field.

Some other top players included Lee Trevino, a threat in most of his last few starts, veteran Miller Barber, always-dangerous Billy Casper and Bob Lunn, the 1968 champ and the only man to beat Hill on this course in the last four years.

Pro golf's so-called Big Three, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player, are skipping the event.

Hope Auto defeated Barry's 13-3 Tuesday night in Little League play. Winning pitcher was Bruce Huddleston while Kelly Butler took the loss.

Lions Club won over James Motor 6-5 in the second game with Edwin Connelly getting credit for the win. Jay Honeycutt was the losing pitcher.

In the last game, Sheriff's team beat CBC 10-3. David Sisson was the winning pitcher; Vince Bishop the loser.

MAJOR PAUL JOPLIN

Major Paul Joplin of the U.S. Army was the guest speaker at Tuesday's Kiwanis Club meeting on a program arranged by Kiwanian Jon Leim.

Major Joplin is a native of Magnolia as is his wife who was a guest at Tuesday's meeting. He entered the service after graduation from Ouachita Baptist University and has recently completed his second tour of duty in Viet Nam as a company commander of a helicopter group.

The Major's remarks dealt primarily with the drug abuse problem existing, not only in Viet Nam, but in our own country and even in Hope.

So much has been in the news media concerning this problem that there is an increased awareness of the problem and an increased concern in the Military as well as among the civilian population.

The distinctive difference in drugs in the United States and Viet Nam is the strength of the drug. A habitual user of Heroin in the United States taking the same quantity in Viet Nam would be taking a lethal dose due to the purity of the Viet Nam drug. Drug pushers in Viet Nam will sell anything for drugs. Sulphuric Acid, for example, might be sold to an unsuspecting addict. Drugs are cheap in Viet Nam, so cheap that one becoming addicted there could not possibly afford his habit on return to the United States.

The Military is doing its best to educate Viet Nam personnel as well as those in other areas to the

Barton Case Is to Be Fought Out

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle, trying to avoid an open conflict between his National Football League and the Canadian Football League, prepared today to take the Greg Barton case to the CFL for discussion.

"We have compiled the information on the case and we plan to talk to the CFL," he said after a meeting of NFL owners Tuesday. "I don't know what the chances are of getting Barton back until I talk to them."

Rozelle is trying to put out a spark that has raised talk of war between the leagues. The spark is Barton, an obscure quarterback with Detroit who suddenly became a cause celebre when he was traded to the Philadelphia Eagles, apparently agreed to sign with the Eagles and then was spirited away by the Toronto Argonauts of the CFL.

"If we do have any evidence that Toronto tampered by talking to Barton before he played out his option we would prefer to give it to them (the CFL) first," Rozelle said. "We have no contractual agreement with the CFL, only an oral agreement against tampering, but both sides would prefer to avoid a bad situation. If we have evidence, I would hope that they (the CFL) would abide by it."

Meanwhile, Coach Jerry Williams of the Eagles, hard-pressed for a quarterback after trading Norm Snead the same week he thought he had acquired Barton, talked about a possible war between the eagles.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Carlotta Monti once mused to W. C. Fields:

"I wonder which means more to you—the drinks or me."

The comedian replied to his mistress: "Each has its position of relative importance in the household."

That typically Fieldsian gesture of unsentimentality is reported in a new book, "W. C. Fields and Me," which Miss Monti wrote with Cy Rice. It is a remarkably frank and revealing account of 14 years in the household of the classic comedian.

They never married, for the simple reason that Fields still had a wife; he had married early in his career, fathered a son, parted, and was never divorced.

Fields and Miss Monti met on a movie set when she was a singing starlet. On the fourth night she visited his home, and he remarked in typical fashion:

"I'm not going to spread a handkerchief and get down on one knee before you, because my arthritis might hurt when I got up. But I have something important to ask ... Come live with me."

When she protested that she had her career to think of, he melted her with a simple phrase: "I need you." She agreed to stay. Rarely again did she ever hear such tenderness.

"You are never to leave me," he warned her, "or I'll have you drawn and quartered." Miss Monti writes that Fields was a warm lover—"he seemed starved for real love and affection, and I gave it to him in large quantities."

He could also be mean and vindictive. He hated music and once when she persisted with guitar lessons he whacked her with his cane. She left in a rage and went to New York to pursue a career, and a Broadway singer. She almost married the singer but discovered he was unfaithful and returned to Fields.

He was sick and needed her help. But still he instructed her to leave the guitar in New York—"and your voice with it."

Field's parsimony was extreme, reflecting his boyhood of poverty. He allowed his rented mansions to crumble, refusing to repair a house that someone else owned. He continually tested Miss Monti's honesty, planting cash around the house to see if it would disappear.

Los Angeles Helps Honor Willie Mays, Still Star at 40

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A setting such as Dodger Stadium had to be unique for an evening honoring a San Francisco, nee New York, Giant. But the man in question was Willie Mays, who today began his third decade in the uniform of a Giant.

The Los Angeles Dodgers made a pretty big thing about Tuesday night's encounter with their traditional rivals, the Giants, since May 25 marked the debut of Willie Howard Mays Jr. 20 years ago as a New York Giant.

Mays, who turned 40 earlier this month, said he was pleased with such a testimonial. But as befits such a statistic—40 years of age and 20 with the same club, he observed:

"I'd just as soon there wasn't so much attention paid to it. All I want to do is help win ball games and forget about years."

There was a brief ceremony at home plate as most of the 40,042 fans were in their seats before the game. Big Don Newcombe, a former Brooklyn Dodger pitching great, who described Mays as "an old nemesis," acclaimed Mays for his endeavors both on and off the playing field.

"I'd be lying if I said I wasn't nervous," Mays told the crowd after it gave him a standing ovation. "It's a situation a lot of ballplayers would like to be in, playing in a strange place and getting this kind of reception."

White Sox to Get 1st Pick in BB Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — The Chicago White Sox will pick first when organized baseball conducts its summer free agents draft here June 8-9.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, announcing the format for the draft Tuesday, said the major league clubs, as in previous years, will pick in the inverse order of their 1970 finish.

The selections in the second phase of the draft, which involved "active" and "delayed" sections, are determined by drawings.

Following the White Sox in the regular draft will be San Diego, Milwaukee, Montreal, Kansas City, Philadelphia, Washington, St. Louis, Cleveland, Atlanta, Detroit, Houston, California, New York Mets, Boston, Chicago Cubs, Oakland, San Francisco, New York Yankees, Los Angeles, Minnesota, Pittsburgh, Baltimore and Cincinnati.

The Washington Senators will have the first selection in the "delayed" phase of the draft, which includes players drafted before last January who remain unsigned.

4th QB for Steelers Is 'Rejected Man'

By D. BYRON YAKE
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Joe Spagnola—Spaghetti Joe, they call him—is the Pittsburgh Steelers' fourth quarterback for the time being, a spot he likens to the proverbial fifth wheel.

"It's a bummer," said the 185-pounder who was signed by the Steelers as a free agent this year after he went unselected in the National Football League draft. "I feel like I've been rejected."

Spagnola, who immigrated here with his parents from Naples, Italy, when he was nine, became quarterback at Arizona State after the third game of his sophomore year.

For a man not used to taking a backseat, Spagnola knows he faces some tough competition in the likes of quarterbacks Terry Bradshaw and Terry Hanratty, as well as Bob Leahy, who spent last season with the club's cab squad.

"I don't want to be on a taxi squad," Spagnola said last week during a three-day seminar for Steeler rookies. "If that happens I might ask them (the Steelers) for permission to try out with another club."

Spagnola signed with the Steelers in desperation, but two days later he got a call from Kansas City, later from a Canadian pro team. Now he admits he may have signed too quickly.

"I was worried nobody else would ask me," he said. "I think with weight work I can be just as good as anybody. But Bradshaw is so good. I can tell just the way he throws the ball. He rifles them."

At Arizona State, Spagnola threw 35 career touchdowns, about 23 of them to J.D. Hill, top draft choice of the Buffalo Bills.

Running backs Mike Brunson and Art Malone, both drafted in 1970 by Atlanta, played for the Sun Devils while Spagnola was quarterback.

Then there was Steve Holden, a flanker back who ran a 8.6, compared to Hill's 9.3, in the 100-yard dash.

In a way, Spagnola was a shadow then, like he is with the Steelers.

"Yeah, I guess you could say that," he admitted. "But I got my share of ink. I can't complain."

Albuquerque Beats Travs by 3 to 2

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)

— The Albuquerque Dodgers pushed across a run in the bottom of the eighth inning and slipped past the Arkansas Travelers 3-2 here Tuesday night.

The Dodgers' winning run came off Tim Plodinec, who relieved Dennis Daboll in the seventh.

Paul Johnson led off Albuquerque's eighth with a bloop double and took third on Royle Stillman's infield out. Johnson scored the winning run on Steve Yeager's single through the Travelers' drawn-in infield.

The Travelers scored both of their runs in the second inning on singles by Kenny Reitz, Mike McDonald and Milt Ramirez and a double play.

Despite the loss, the Travelers remained 1½ games ahead of Memphis in the Central Division of the Dixie Association. The Blues lost a doubleheader to San Antonio, 7-1 and 7-2.

In other Dixie Association action Amarillo defeated Shreveport 6-3, Asheville edged Columbus 1-0, Dallas - Fort Worth whipped Birmingham 7-5 and Jacksonville clipped Charlotte 3-2 in 13 innings. The game between Montgomery and Savannah was rained out.

The average public swimming pool contains about 250,000 gallons of water.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Weak Pelvic Floor Can Be Corrected

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Could you explain a pelvic malformation or weakening of the pelvic floor? Is there such a thing in women? Also, could this contribute to bladder infections? Is there an operation to cure this?

Dear Reader—The bony pelvis is shaped somewhat like the ring and net for the basket in basketball. The top of the ring is called the inlet to the pelvis and is the top of the hip joints. Seated in the basket, so to speak, are the abdominal organs including the lower part of the intestines, the urinary bladder and the reproductive organs.

The lower part of the basket is called the outlet of the pelvis. This bony opening is fairly large in women to permit normal birth. Muscles are stretched across the outlet portion of the pelvis. They prevent the urinary bladder, the reproductive organs and a abdominal contents from dropping through the outlet. These muscles are called the pelvic floor.

If these muscles become stretched too much or torn with childbirth, the floor to the outlet of the pelvis is weakened and indeed the bladder and reproductive organs can lose their normal position. Sometimes the bladder loses its normal function and the disturbance in bladder function sets the stage for an infection to develop as well as cause difficulties in controlling urination.

These problems can usually be corrected by a fairly simple operation which literally takes up the slack in the overstretched muscles and provides normal support to the bottom of the pelvis or the outlet. It has the same effect as putting new webbing on last summer's lawn chairs. In this way the bladder and the reproductive organs are again properly positioned and return to more normal function. This operation is simply called a "pelvic floor repair."

Dear Dr. Lamb—After reading your article, I am concerned. I do not smoke but I do take pills with nicotine in them for my circulation. Are they really harmful? I am 74 years old.

Dear Reader—I am sure you are not taking nicotine pills. You are taking nicotinic acid which is sometimes used in an effort to lower the cholesterol level in the blood. Nicotinic acid is a vitamin group not the nicotine present in tobacco. In the United States it is called niacin in an effort to avoid confusion. Nicotine is a poison.

Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!
This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED for it, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

ANOTHER DIARY OF A MAD HOUSEWIFE
Dear Helen:

"Standing Up Dead" could easily have been written by me. I, too, am married to a real "nice guy." He is so "nice" that he gets along with me and everyone at all costs. This means taking the easiest way out—agreeing with the other person or ignoring her (him). Saves argument, confrontation, involvement. He has no energy, emotion or enthusiasm for me or his married life. Yet he is a "good person." How can you leave a man who never mistreats you, who won't even stand up and fight? I'm dying of boredom but I stay out of pity, or perhaps habit. Or maybe because I'd be "the villain" if I cut loose.

Yes, I guess I'm the typical witch or a "heller on wheels" who works full time, has raised a talented son or whom I fear I've transferred the affection my husband should have demanded. I've energy to burn.

This has been an especially difficult marriage for me because I enjoy nothing more than a good, fair fight and the warmth and joy of compromise and sharing with one another, mentally and sensually. And each night when I come home to polite nothingness, I die a little more.

My solution? "Standing Up Dead" may have inspired it: I will suggest that we see a counselor, a painful process since it will hurt both my husband and me. If we are strong enough to survive the embattlements of the analyst, we may both work out changes that can save our marriage. Mainly we must learn to be honest with each other and with ourselves—"start probing," as you said, Helen. But if we discover we are too afraid, or too set in our molds to change, then despite my conscience, it will be best to call it quits. Right?—SECRETARY

Right! Mismatched people do each other no favor by staying together. In separate lives you might be completely different persons, for I've an idea your vitality saps your husband's strength, while his placidity makes you act the "heller or witch."

Though a quiet person can't express it, he may be as desperate for change as you are, but he's locked in by your pity and resentment. . . and by his somewhat distorted image of what a good and dutiful husband should be.

Perhaps he needs a wife he can dominate occasionally, whereas you yearn for a lustier mate. A counselor can't produce miracles but if he can effect a compromise (through honest appraisal) there's still a chance for your marriage.

Let's hope your husband sees this, and will accept psychotherapy.—H.

In your reply to "Standing Up Dead" you merely suggest verbal elaboration of the flaccid ritual which is setting the pattern for lethargy. Much more important for S.U.D. is to reinforce her own womanhood so she can lock a viable hold on hubby's masculinity: I promise he'll come alive.—LYING DOWN ALIVE

P.S. Try again, Helen, your answer was analytical more than anatomical. Sad!

Dear L.D.A.:
IF YOUR "verbal elaboration" means "good sex cures all marriage blahs," try again, L.D.A.! Important, yea, but happy stay-togethers also use communication, intelligent conversation, empathy, understanding . . . not just "body" English.—H.

Dear Helen:
This woman and I are on the same committees and often appear in newspaper pictures together. She never misses saying, "Darling, you always get such flattering shots." Then she adds, "Everyone tells me I look so much younger and prettier than MY picture." And she expects me to agree. Should I:—MIFFED

Dear Miffed:
No! Tell her the truth: Newspaper reproductions do wonders for aging females—they smooth out most of the lines. Or, if you feel particularly miffed, you might ask "Who does your retouching, dear?"—H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble; let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of Hope Star. Copyright, 1971, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Look down from heaven and see, from thy holy and glorious habitation. Where are thy zeal and thy might? The yearning of thy heart and thy compassion are withheld from me.—Isaiah 63:15

Opening lead—See article

By Oswald & James Jacoby

From 1931 to around 1960 any expert pair would have no trouble getting to six hearts with the North-South cards after West opened one club. North would make a game-forcing, two-club cue bid. South would respond three hearts to show some values and North would go the rest of the way.

The average bridge player uses that same bid today and would get to the slam the same way, but some modern experts might have trouble because they use the Michaels cue bid to show majors against a minor-suit opening and not to show a rock-crusher.

Those North players would have to double the opening club bid. Slam should be reached easily provided South was willing to jump to two hearts with his six-card suit and two kings. It might even be reached if South just bid one heart, but we are sure that many charity game players didn't reach slam.

Strangely enough, the slam only makes because West does have an opening bid. Give East the ace of clubs and a club lead toward that ace would send South into the slough of despond when hearts failed to break evenly.

With the actual layout it doesn't matter what West leads. If he opens the ace of clubs South ruffs in dummy, cashes the ace and queen of trumps and leads diamonds. If West leads anything else South must go right after diamonds, although he can afford to cash one or two trumps first.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The planet Mars has two satellites, Deimos and Phobos, which are about 5 and 10 miles in diameter. They were discovered in 1877 by Asaph Hall. However, The World Almanac notes that these tiny satellites were described with uncanny accuracy by Jonathan Swift in "Gulliver's Travels," published in 1726.

Lions Club Speaker

PAUL HENLEY

Director of Parks and Recreation, Paul Henley, was guest speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Lions Club Monday at the Town and Country.

Paul gave a very comprehensive report on park activities listing the different baseball and softball leagues and the number of teams and players in each group and their playing times and locations. Altogether 748 young people are participating in these sports.

Improvements to the city recreational facilities include a new entrance and signs, new restrooms and a cypress pavilion. Pryor to the new pavilion the old band stand was the only roofed refuge for picnics when rain came along. These improvements are at Fair Park; unfortunately, vandals destroyed the directional signs within a week or so.

At K Park an underground sprinkler has been installed which keeps the grass healthier, the ground softer and safer for the young players. An electric scoreboard has been installed and dugouts, bleachers and restrooms have been given new paint.

Legion Field has remodeled restrooms, signs on outfield fence with other improvements planned.

The softball field has a chain link fence, backstop and portable concession stand and portable bleachers and underground sprinkler system - hope to have lights next year.

At City Park there is a new chain link fence, new dugouts and scoreboard at the ball field and at the swimming pool, the bathhouse has a new roof and paint.

Paul reported that the apron of the pool at Fair Park had been painted but that the bathhouse needed replacing. Plans are being made for staying open at night and giving swimming instructions to adults as well as children.

Employment of full time and extra help in summer was discussed and the using of various Federal Fund Programs in order to use summer workers. To complete the "something for all" idea Paul also works with two senior citizens clubs.

Cecil O'steen arranged the program. Guests were Dennis Hall, GMC Trucks, Troy Thrash, Midway Motors of Glenwood, Dr. Bill Capps, Hope, and Mel Thrash of Hope.

Glenon Huckabee was presented to the club as a new member.

Recalling the earlier discovery, he thought it might be a grave. He told fireman Ray Duron, who called the sheriff's office.

The second body was discovered.

JUDGE'S DECISION (From Page One)

government prosecutor, may be that the Seale-Huggins case and its predecessor, trial of the "Milwaukee 14," had "political overtones that gain the publicity."

The lawyer, Franklyn M. Gimbel, represented federal judge Myron Gordon, who dismissed federal charges against 10 of the Vietnam war protesters in 1969 because "of the effect of adverse publicity on the prospective jurors."

The 10 had been convicted earlier in state court on charges of burglary, arson and theft. The Justice Department appealed Judge Gordon's action, but the Supreme Court refused on Feb. 24, 1970, to overrule him.

Gimbel, in a telephone interview, said "this case was as close a parallel to the Seale-Huggins ruling as you can find in recent jurisprudence in this country."

Only two of the nine Justices, Warren E. Burger and Potter Stewart, favored hearing the government's argument that judges must either switch the site of a trial, delay it until the publicity eases or keep trying to empanel an unbiased jury.

Deputies said in each case the graves on the Sullivan land were about 3 1/2-feet to 5-feet-deep and six-feet-long.

Late Tuesday night deputies dug for bodies beneath auxiliary powered lights in a drizzle briefly turned into a rainstorm. The area was cordoned off to preserve any evidence that might be found.
